Yard waste disposal facility moving

Beginning immediately, the city of Branson has closed its public yard waste disposal site located at the Cooper Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant on Fall Creek Road. MAP

“The Cooper Creek site was not convenient for citizens, either in location or hours,” said Mona Menezes, Branson’s environmental specialist. “We typically had just five or six residents per week disposing of yard waste, and we could not justify staffing the site.”

In the meantime, a yard waste disposal site has been set up at the Journagan Quarry in Hollister just off Highway 65. The quarry will stay open longer hours starting this spring. There is a tipping fee of $3 per cubic yard for the waste disposal, which was the same fee at Cooper Creek.

“Journagen’s will give Branson and Taney County residents and businesses greater flexibility in dropping off yard waste,” said Menezes. Directions to the new yard waste site will be posted on the city’s website, along with hours and contact information.

Any questions concerning the move can be addressed to Mona Menezes, Branson’s environmental specialist, at 337-8566.
